DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hayashi (4631017) in view of Morikawa (5783218) and Iwama (5002711).

Hayashi teaches the claimed apparatus having a frame with a cluster of a plurality of extending rollers (5) that arranged to be endless and rotatable, the food conveying member having a feeding in conveyor (2) and a part is guided by a belt guiding member (3), and a feeding out conveyor (4). The conveyors having a lowered position from the rollers (Ta,Tc). The rollers located on an upper frame (12), that is movable away from the lower portion (3).

Hayashi fails to teach the belt guiding member is inclined, and the distances between conveyors to the rollers.

Morikawa teaches a cluster of a plurality of extending rollers (5) and the food conveying member (2), the feeding in portion (31,32) of the belt being inclined and the feeding out portion (34,35) of the belt is also inclined. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Hayashi to have the conveyors being inclined as taught by Morikawa because it allows for an arc thereby improving the performance (Col. 2, lines 7-25).

In regards to the distances, this could be obtained through routine experimentation of the placements of the elements in the apparatus for optimum results. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Hayashi with positioning of the elements through routine experimentation because it would find the optimum results for the conveyors and rollers in the apparatus.
